

Teacher Training Workshop

Health in Latin America: From Indigenous Healing to Biomedicine

The Zika outbreak in Latin America, Indigenous healing practices in Mexico, public health in Cuba, and more.

This workshop will introduce teachers to the diverse communities of Latin America and some of their strategies and traditions for promoting health and wellbeing. We will explore the concepts of population, demography, public health, colonialism, worldview, Indigenous medicine, and biomedicine.

The second half of the workshop will focus on strategies for teaching and reinforcing these concepts using visual art. All participants will be eligible to receive/ apply for:

- 6 State Continuing Education Clock Hours (SCECHs)
- A curriculum development grant of up to $200 for books and materials. Applications for these grants will be made available to participants after the workshop.

This program is designed for middle and high school social studies, art, and health teachers, but all are welcome!

To register online: sites.lsa.umich.edu/ii-signup
For questions, contact Laura M. Herbert at lmhmich@umich.edu

8:30am-4:30pm
June 29, 2017

University of Michigan
Ann Arbor, MI 48109

International Institute
Room 1644 SSWB
1080 S University Avenue

U-M Museum of Art (UMMA)
525 South State Street

Cost: $20.00

Included in cost: Light breakfast, lunch, coffee throughout the day, copy of the book Medicine and Public Health in Latin America: A History by Marcos Cueto and Steven Palmer, print resources, and art supplies.