

2012 Nam Center for Korean Studies Professional Development Workshop

2012-08-25 10:00am-04:00pm KOREA

Presented in Partnership with the University of Michigan Museum of Art

Saturday, August 25, 2012

8:30am-4:00pm

SB-CEUs Available!

U-M School of Social Work Building | Room 1636
1080 S. University Ave., Ann Arbor, MI

with afternoon session at UMMA

Registration Deadline: Aug 10, 2012

Registration Fee: $10 (additional $10 fee for SB-CEU processing)

Travel Reimbursements & Registration Fee Waivers also available for eligible participants

Take yourself to the cacophony, bright lights, and frenetic pace of contemporary South Korea this year as we explore Korean culture and society in the Nam Center's third annual workshop for educators. Learn how Korea has moved from an agrarian society to one of the leading economies of the world in less than 75 years with presentations from leading researchers on contemporary Korean culture, Youngju Ryu and Natsu Oyobe, and an installation by Young-Hae Chang Heavy Industries, a Seoul-based contemporary art group. Leading K-12 colleagues with training on Korea will guide participants on tactics to incorporate Korea into their classroom and how the Nam Center can support their teaching of Korea in the classroom.

take the day home with you resources & references • lesson plans • DVD containing A/V materials & more!

For registration and information contact Do-Hee Morsman dmorsman@umich.edu or 734.647.9857

<http://www.ii.umich.edu/ncks/educationalresources/k14educationalmaterials/workshops>