The Literature of Environmental and Social Justice

Tuesday/Thursday 4:00-5:30 East Quad

RCIDIV 305-001 (31691)

Are you interested in social justice? Join this discussion-based, dynamic class. We'll host speakers, view environmental documentary films, read non-fiction, fiction, and poetry.

Bi-weekly, one-page responses are required. A semester-end project of the student's choosing (research paper, zine, blog, documentary, photo exhibition, etc.), approved by the professor and presented to the class, is the final exam for this course.

Email Virginia Murphy with any questions: vemu@umich.edu

Open to all LSA students who are interested in the subject matter.
