

CLASSICAL ARCHAEOLOGY

Minor Checklist

This minor is intended to provide students with the opportunity to explore the archaeology and art of the ancient Mediterranean world. Students will acquire a broad archaeological, historical and cultural overview, before turning to more specific courses dealing with the artistic production and material conditions of Greek and Roman society. The minor is designed so that students may follow different “tracks,” emphasizing—if they choose—study of either the Greek or Roman world.

Prerequisites:

Choose One broad introductory course in classical archaeology from the following:

- Classical Archaeology 220 [Great Bldgs of Anc Rome/Greece] (4 credits)
- Classical Archaeology 221 [Introduction to Greek Archaeology] (4 credits)
- Classical Archaeology 222 [Introduction to Roman Archaeology] (4 credits)
- Classical Archaeology 323 [Introduction to Field Archaeology] (4 credits)

Requirements:

At least 16 credits of courses chosen from the following three groups:

(1) Choose at least one broad introductory course in classical archaeology, other than the course chosen to meet the prerequisite from the following:

- Classical Archaeology 220 [Great Bldgs of Anc Rome/Greece] (4 credits)
- Classical Archaeology 221 [Introduction to Greek Archaeology] (4 credits)
- Classical Archaeology 222 [Introduction to Roman Archaeology] (4 credits)
- Classical Archaeology 323 [Introduction to Field Archaeology] (4 credits)

(2) Choose at least one broad introductory course in Greek or Roman civilization or Greek and Roman history from the following:

- History 200 [Greece to 201 B.C.] (4 credits)
- History 201 [Rome] (4 credits)
- Classical Civilization 101 [The Ancient Greek World] (4 credits)
- Classical Civilization 102 [The Ancient Roman World] (4 credits)

(3) At least three upper level (upper 300-or 400-level) courses in classical archaeology.

- _____ Credits: _____
- _____ Credits: _____
- _____ Credits: _____

Total Credits: _____

For further questions, please contact the Department of Classical Studies at classics@umich.edu