We look ahead to a year primarily focusing on Polish theater with a special series of events centered around the two-week residency of the world-renowned avant-garde theater company Teatr Omono Dnia—Theater of the Eighth Day. In addition to performing The Plow (ZMisiel), the actors and director Ewa Wójciak will present the Annual Copernicus Lecture on March 21, 2016. We are pleased to host this outstanding theater company in collaboration with U-M’s Department of Theatre & Drama and Third Century Initiative, and the Adam Mickiewicz Institute for Poland. To deepen our knowledge of Polish theater, we will also offer public lectures by specialists on Helena Modrzejewska in Warsaw. We are as ever grateful for the generosity of our donors. It is thanks to your gifts that the Copernicus Program in Polish Studies is able to offer such a rich and diverse program to U-M students and faculty and the greater Detroit area Polish community. We remain committed to bringing Polish studies and the Copernicus Endowment, to celebrate the 400th anniversary of the great Polish astronomer’s birth, the endowment and a Polish program were launched in 1980—which brings prominent faculty appointments, programming, and related activities offered by the Nicolaus Copernicus Program in Polish Studies.

Gorczyca Program in Polish Studies at the University of Michigan was established in 1980 after 40 years of activity and programs offered by the Nicolaus Copernicus Program in Polish Studies. To celebrate the 1000th anniversary of the great Polish astronomer’s birth, the endowment and a Polish program were launched in 1980—in cooperation with students, faculty, and the Polish American community, who contributed generously to this endowment and to campus to offer the public a deeper understanding of Poland’s people, culture, history, as well as its growing influence in world academics, arts, and affairs.
