The Copernicus Program in Polish Studies (CPPS) at the University of Michigan was established in 1964 after forty years of activity and programs offered by the Nicolaus Copernicus Endowment. The endowment and a Polish program were launched in 1973 in cooperation with students, faculty, and administrators at the University who contributed generously with their time, energy, and financial assistance. CPPS continues the tradition today by supporting faculty, programs, and students. The endowment and a Polish program were launched in 1973 in cooperation with students, faculty, and administrators at the University who contributed generously with their time, energy, and financial assistance. CPPS continues the tradition today by supporting faculty, programs, and students. It also organizes the Annual Copernicus Lecture—established in 1980—which brings prominent academic, cultural, and political figures to campus to advance a deeper understanding of Poland’s people, culture, and history, as well as to growing influence in world academics, arts, and affairs.

CPPS continues to strengthen ties with partner institutions in Poland by sponsoring faculty and student initiatives with POLIN Museum of the History of Polish Jews, the Adam Mickiewicz Institute, and the University of Warsaw. As always, we support our students by awarding fellowships to study the Polish language and to travel to Poland for research and internships. In 2017-18, CPPS sponsored 13 scholarships for students studying Polish at U-M. Thanks to your donations, we will continue to expand this program that supports undergraduate language learning in partnership with the Global Department.
