Faculty Instructional/Course Development Seed Grant

Program Summary
Grants are awarded on a competitive basis to support development of courses that have significant Thailand-related content OR are designed to integrate Thailand-related material as an analytical focus, in a comparative framework or as a case study.

Preference will be given to proposals for courses with entirely new or significantly innovative content or method. Interdisciplinary and team-taught courses are encouraged. The items that would be appropriate for Center funding include, but are not limited to:
- assistance in translation of articles from Thai for inclusion in a course;
- assistance in compiling a bibliography;
- development of a slide collection, digital and audio-visual resources, C-tool sites, etc.

Eligibility
Full-time University of Michigan faculty, librarians, and curators who will be teaching courses in the future.

Amount
From $250 to $1,500 per course. (These funds will not cover faculty salary.)

Application Procedure
Please electronically submit the following materials to cseas@umich.edu.

- Course information (including: title of the course, term it will be offered, projected enrollment, and proportion devoted to Thai or SEA studies);
- Funding rationale;
- Itemized budget.
