

INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE PHOTO CONTEST USE NOTICE

As a participant in the University of Michigan International Institute's photo competition, you acknowledge the following:

- By submitting these photos and descriptions, you give the university non-exclusive, royalty-free license to publish them for educational, academic, research, and promotional purposes in any medium in perpetuity.
- The University of Michigan and International Institute may use your name and quotations/descriptions you have supplied.
- You will not receive payment or any compensation in connection with the photographs and recordings, unless you are a competition winner.
- You release the University of Michigan and the International Institute from any liability that may or could arise from the use of the photos.
- The University of Michigan International Institute will acknowledge your works of authorship under a Creative Commons Attribution license, unless you prefer otherwise. Please contact the International Institute communications staff if this applies.
