

Italo-Corinthian alabastron

Italy, Late Orientalizing Period (late 7th–early 6th century BCE), KM 29154

An alabastron is a small vessel used to store precious scented oils. This example is decorated with registers of different animals. We can see birds and a boar on this side, and if we turned it around, we would see a stag and a rooster.