THE POWER

The Center for Middle Eastern and North African Studies (CMENAS) at the University of Michigan is one of the nation's premier institutions for interdisciplinary research and training on the MENA region. With over 80 area specialists and growing undergraduate and M.A. programs, CMENAS brings an important perspective to the university community about this vitally important region of the world. CMENAS is one of six National Resource Centers at U-M, a prestigious designation earned in national peer-reviewed competitions and awarded by the U.S. Department of Education Title VI program. As a member of this program, CMENAS strives to develop the nation's capacities with regard to this region in international studies, area studies, foreign languages, and international business education.

THE OPPORTUNITIES

The center's undergraduate major is an interdisciplinary program that incorporates faculty and courses from across LSA to give students a broad background of the MENA region, including history, language, and culture, to inform their understanding of past and present issues. The graduate program provides broad area and language training for academic or professional careers. CMENAS sponsors student groups, hosts workshops and lectures, supports visiting scholars, and provides a venue for artists and performers.

THE IMPACT

With increasingly limited funding from the Department of Education, the center's future may be in peril. Gifts from individuals committed to promoting an understanding of this significant region are increasingly important to support students, language instruction, and programming.

Funds will support language instruction, innovative courses, lectures and other regional programming, programs for K-16 educators, and will provide flexible funding to address rapidly emerging opportunities.

Endowed Language Lectureship in Turkish

$1M endowed/$50,000 annually

The University of Michigan is among the very few institutions in the country that provide instruction in Turkish at the elementary, intermediate, and advanced level on a regular basis. Due to Congress' deep cuts to international education funding, including support for the less commonly taught languages such as Turkish, outside support is crucial to secure Michigan's role as a preeminent institution for the study of Turkey. An endowed lectureship will ensure continuity for instruction in Turkish language in perpetuity.

Undergraduate Student Fellowships

$10,000 to $50,000 annually

The very best way a student can gain a thorough knowledge of a language and a culture is to spend time studying abroad to experience full linguistic and cultural immersion. CMENAS seeks funding to provide students with fellowships to support language study, research, workshops, and internship/collaborations in the region.
