Poems by Manolis Anagnostakis

Selections from THE TARGET (1970) by Manolis Anagnostakis (1925- ) translated by David Conolly

POETICS

- You're betraying Poetry again, you'll tell me,
  Man?'s most sacred expression
  You're using it again as a means, a pack-mule
  For your sinister objectives
  In full knowledge of the damage you're doing
  To the young through your example.

- Tell me what you have not betrayed
  You and your kind, for years and years,
  Bartering your possessions one by one
  In international markets and common bazaars
  So you're left without eyes to see, without ears
  To hear, with lips sealed and you say nothing.
  For which of man?'s sacred rights are you arraigning us?

I know: preaching and rhetoric again, you'll say.
Well, yes! Preaching and rhetoric.

Words have to be hammered like nails.

If they're not to be lost in the wind.
THESSALONIKI, DAYS OF 1969 A.D.

In Egyptou Street -first turning right-
There now stands the Transaction Bank Building
Tourist agencies and emigration bureaus
And kids can no longer play with all the traffic passing
In any case the kids have grown, the times you knew have passed
They now no longer laugh, whisper secrets, share trust,
Those that survived, that is, as grave illnesses have appeared since then Floods, deluges, earthquakes, armoured soldiers;
They remember their fathers? words: you'll experience better days
It's of no importance in the end if they didn't experience them, they repeat the lesson to their own children
Always hoping that the chain will one day break
Perhaps with their children's children or the children of their children's children.
For the time being, in the old street as was said, there stands the Transactions Bank
-I transact, you transact, he transacts-
Tourist agencies and emigration bureaus
-we emigrate, you emigrate, they emigrate-
Wherever I travel Greece wounds me, as the Poet said
Greece with its lovely islands, lovely offices, lovely churches

Greece of the Greeks.
Actually, we shouldn't complain.
Your company's good and congenial, full of youth,
Fresh young girls - stout-bodied lads
All passion and love for life and action.
And your songs too, good, with meaning and substance
So very human, so moving,
About infants that die in other continents
About heroes killed in former times,
About revolutionaries, Black, Green and Yellow ones,
About Man's grief in his overall suffering.
It's especially to your credit that you involve yourselves
In the issues and struggles of our age
You directly and actively make your presence felt - in view of which I think you more than deserve
In twos, in threes, to play, to fall in love,
And unwind, for sure pal, after such exertion.

(They've aged us prematurely Yorgos, do you realise?)