

GENDER AND CLASS IN CONTEMPORARY SOUTH KOREA

HOURS: TUESDAY & THURSDAY
3:00 - 4:15PM (CT) | 4:00 - 5:15PM (ET)
INSTRUCTOR: SEUNG-KYUNG KIM, PHD / SK84@INDIANA.EDU

This interdisciplinary course will explore important issues of gender and class in South Korea through empirical, fictional and theoretical readings that deal with the issue. This course will approach gender and class not as descriptive but as analytic categories in order to understand how these intersecting categories have shaped power relations in Korean society. It will also incorporate a chronological perspective in its thematic clusters of reading: the readings will capture some of the insights that emerged from conversations and debates about how to understand gender and class in a variety of social-historical locations throughout the twentieth century.

OFFERED JOINTLY BY:

Course Number
EALC-E350/E505

Course Number
History 3600
WGSS 3320

PENNSSTATE

Course Number
KOR 498

THIS COURSE IS MADE POSSIBLE WITH THE SUPPORT OF THE:

KOREA KF
FOUNDATION

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION:

SEUNG-KYUNG KIM, Indiana University
sk84@indiana.edu

MITCHELL LERNER Ohio State University
lerner.26@osu.edu

SORIN HUH, Penn State University
suh30@psu.edu