The Sociology of Health & Medicine minor offers students a coherent curriculum that emphasizes the socio-demographic, cultural, political, and ethical contexts that underlie health behavior and health policy. The minor responds to a growing demand from pre-health undergraduates for a minor in LSA that emphasizes the study of health and society. In addition, there is a growing recognition on the part of health educators that sociology should be a part of a well-rounded premedical curriculum.

For students interested in the following career paths:
- medicine
- public policy
- health advocacy
- research on health & health inequality
- social work

Classes in the minor cover topics such as:
- health politics & policy
- health inequality
- population dynamics & problems
- gender & health
- aging, death and dying
- bioethics
- medical sociology
