

Notice of Nichols Arboretum Sewer Rejuvenation Work January 3-March 24, 2017

The City of Ann Arbor is performing much-needed work on several aging and outdated sanitary sewer lines in the Arb this winter. The rejuvenated lines will address the changing sanitary sewer needs of Ann Arbor and help to better protect the Huron River and the Arboretum's delicate ecosystems. While the Arb will remain open during the work, some paths will close temporarily to accommodate the project. Please take note of signs and notices in and around the work area.

HOW THIS MAY AFFECT YOUR VISIT TO THE ARB:

- Work will begin on or around Tuesday, January 3, 2017 and last through March 24.
- East Medical Center Dr. and Nichols Drive into U-M parking lot M-29 will not be affected.
- Please note areas in red and pink on map below. These are work locations, mostly along the Arboretum portion of Nichols Dr., that will be affected.
- Some roads and pedestrian paths will close intermittently as the work progresses. Occasional construction traffic along Nichols Dr. in the Arb will also occur. Please be aware of signage and barricades indicating closed trails.
